

Kimberly Williams

Experienced Board Chair and Audit Committee Member

Kimberly Williams is an experienced independent board director and technology executive. She currently serves on the boards of Absorb Software (Chairperson and Audit Committee), a global leading learning management software company and Consumer Safety Technology (Board Member and Audit Committee), a leading IoT automotive technology. In addition to her current boards, Kimberly previously served on the board of True Commerce (board member and audit committee), a global fintech company. She is a member of the Women's Corporate Directors Association.

Kimberly is a highly accomplished CEO, with a long track record of transforming technology businesses to achieve industry-leading growth. Since 2021, Kimberly has been CEO of Absorb Software, a $100 million global cloud-based SaaS company. From 2014 through 2021, she was the CEO of Consumer Safety Technology, LLC, a $250 million IoT automotive technology company. Before joining Consumer Safety Technology, Ms. Williams was the President of RDI, a global point of sale software company. Kimberly held several leadership positions at RR Donnelley including general manager of speciality publishing group, a $200 division, and president of Red Rover Digital a SaaS ecommerce company. Before that, she was a strategy consultant with the Boston Consulting Group.

In 2022, Kimberly was invited to join the Enterprise Software CEO Roundtable that brings together CEOs of the largest, most forward-thinking software companies to share insights.

Ms. Williams earned her B.B.A with highest distinction. from the University of Michigan and MBA, with honors, from the Booth School of Business at the University of Chicago. She and her husband enjoy golf, baseball, and college basketball (especially March Madness) as well as spending time with their adult daughter and family.