Launched on International Women's Day in 2023, 50 Women to Watch for Boards aims to assist corporate boards that still lack women directors by providing them access to qualified candidates.

Selected by an elite committee comprised of Nom/Gov Chairs, Stock Exchange Leaders, and Board Directors, the 50 finalists receive the support they need to advance in their board search and gain public recognition through multiple online channels and partnerships.

Companies that want to be part of their success and gain access to the list, including contact details, are invited to sponsor the initiative. Today, 20% of the first cohort have secured a public company board seat.
